Now, Satyapal backs lateral entry in edu institutes too

New Delhi: Notwithstanding the opposition's criticism, Union minister Satyapal Singh pitched for extension of the lateral entry scheme in various ministries at the joint secretary rank to government-run educational institutions and said the issue should not be politicised. The junior HRD minister said this would improve the efficiency of institutions.

"...it would amount to acceleration of quality and speed including transparency in quicker dispensation of public policies," Singh said.

The government has opened up senior-level bureaucratic posts in several departments to even from the private sector who are "talented and motivated" and willing to contribute towards nation building. Advertisements in this regard were published in leading newspapers. But Congress and other opposition parties have questioned the move, alleging that it was aimed at getting those associated with BJP into administrative ranks.

Addressing a conclave in New Delhi, the minister expressed confidence that the "discrimination" between public and private academic institutions would gradually come to an end since the matter is under serious consideration at the highest level. "I have raised the issue with the President as well as the PM. That is the priority and significance that this government has attached to the matter," Singh said. AGENCIES
